

NHS Supply Chain National Clinical Advisory Forum - Key Messages

March 2025

Key Messages- March 2025

1. NHS supply chain have launched their new clinical and quality of care strategy which has three key ambitions
Partnerships that enable us to help the NHS to provide the best care to patients
Our role in Population Health Management
Promoting Quality of Care
There is a clear strategy on a page and Michelle is happy to be contacted if anyone would like to discuss further.
2. Through collaboration between NHS Supply Chain, Clinical Procurement Specialist Network and NHS Trust Procurement Teams completed a mapping of clinical procurement specialist roles across England NHS Trusts. The outcome of the mapping will now be considered by members of the NHS Supply Chain National Clinical Advisory Forum and will include shared learning on education and training requirements, understanding of roles and responsibilities as well as work to support NHS trusts and Integrated Care Systems/Regions where there are significant gaps in provision of clinical procurement expertise.
3. The Forum to start building the Value-added benefits of the role of clinical procurement specialists including financial and patient outcomes as well as workforce measures of success.

Clinical Representatives – NHSE Region

London

John McLinden, Divisional Director of Nursing and Therapies, Central London Community Health Care Trust

Midlands

Sian Fumarola, Head of Clinical Procurement, Royal Wolverhampton NHS Trust

Claire Nash, Head of Clinical Products Manager, Sandwell and West Birmingham Hospitals NHS Trust

Janice Nelson, Clinical Procurement Specialist, Sandwell and West Birmingham Hospitals NHS Trust

North West

Marie Green, Clinical Procurement Matron, Manchester University NHS Foundation Trust

East of England

Liam Horkin, Head of Clinical Procurement, East Suffolk and North Essex Foundation Trust

South East

Stephen Hill, Clinical Procurement Specialist, University Hospitals Sussex NHS Foundation Trust

South West

Lisa Hocking, Deputy Director Infection Prevention and Control and Associate Chief Nurse, Royal United Hospitals Bath NHS Foundation Trust